

Corruption in Tajikistan:
Causes and Consequences

Muhiddin Tojiev Sharofiddin Soliev
Tajik Academy of Sciences Tajik State
 Pedagogical University

TRACCC, George Mason University, USA
April 9, 2012

Outline

- ❖ Current situation
- ❖ Anticorruption Efforts
- ❖ Achievements to date
- ❖ Causes (general and specific)
- ❖ Consequences (National and beyond)
- ❖ Conclusion
- ❖ Recommendations

Current Situation: National Data

Concerned with corruption (64%)

The level of corruption is high (57%)

Corruption will be growing (54%)

3

International research: CPI 2011

4

Anticorruption Efforts

- ❖ Political Measures
- ❖ Legislative Measures
- ❖ International Community Support
- ❖ Civil Society Contribution
- ❖ Surveys (UNDP – 2005, 2006 and 2010, OSCE - 2011)

5

Legislative Efforts

- ❖ Anticorruption Department within the Prosecutor's Office (2004)
- ❖ Law on Fight Against Corruption (2005)
- ❖ Joined the UN Convention Against Corruption (2006)
- ❖ Establishment of Anticorruption Agency (2007)
- ❖ Anticorruption Strategy for 2008-2012 (2008)
- ❖ National Anticorruption Council (2010)
- ❖ Law on Accountability Chamber (2011)

6

Achievements to date

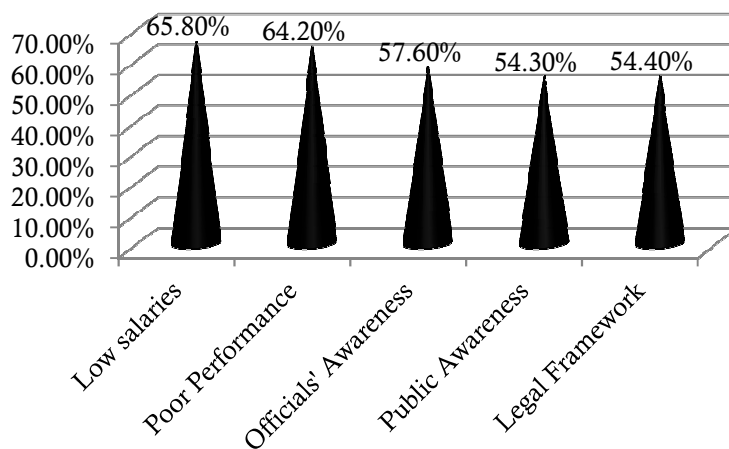

- ❖ Eradication of warlords
- ❖ World Bank's Doing Business Report
(top 10 reformers: 2010-2011)
- ❖ TALCO and Barki Tojik Audit
- ❖ One-stop shop system
- ❖ Legal sanctions

National Survey: General Causes

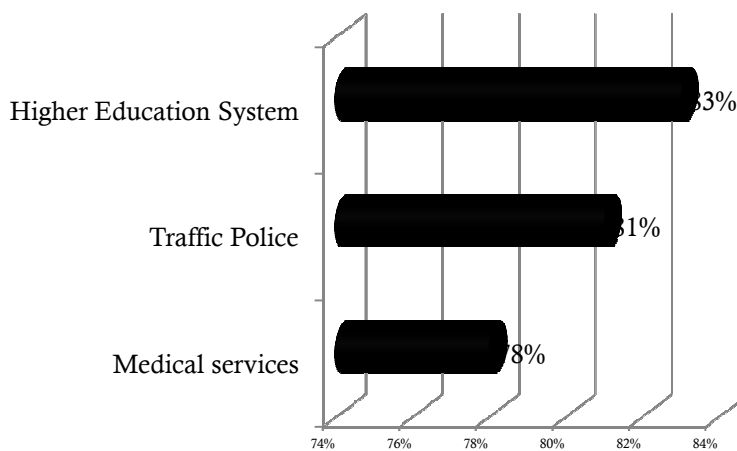

- ❖ Political
 - Transition in Governance System
- ❖ Economic
 - Economic Reforms
 - Privatization
- ❖ Social
 - Cultural, Social and Psychological Peculiarities

National Survey: Specific Causes

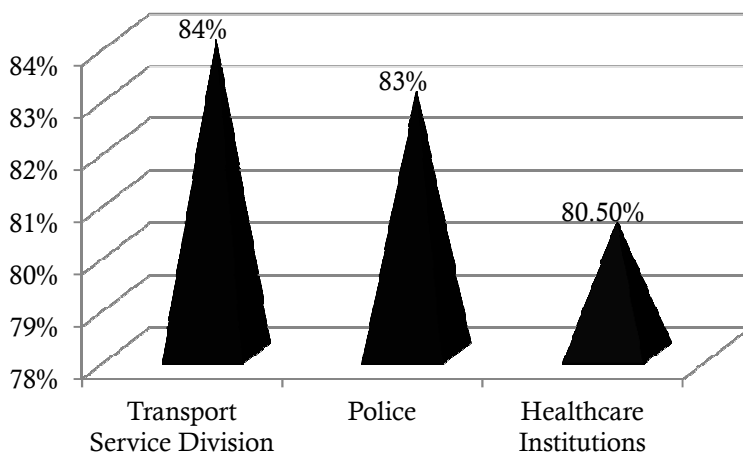

9

Most Corrupt Services

10

Most Corrupt Sectors

11

Consequences: national

- ❖ Less/No Investment
- ❖ Less Donor Assistance
- ❖ Political Instability
- ❖ Security Threat
- ❖ Loss of Public Trust in Government

12

Consequences: regional and beyond

13

Recommendations

- ❖ To develop realistic programs taking into account the available resources
- ❖ To ensure monitoring and evaluation of anticorruption efforts
- ❖ To communicate the reforms to the public in a proper way
- ❖ To strengthen anticorruption efforts
in the Tajik-Afghan border

14