

Virtual Panel: The anti-corruption potential of beneficial ownership transparency and implications for natural resources

September 30, 2021 | 9:00am – 10:30am Eastern Time

Beneficial ownership transparency (BOT) is emerging as an important policy tool for curbing corruption and stemming illicit financial flows – including flows connected to natural resources. Experts on this virtual panel will highlight the rapidly changing landscape around beneficial ownership regulations and the importance of beneficial ownership information for improving conservation outcomes. Panelists will discuss good practices for regulation development and how collaborations with law enforcement and financial institutions can advance needed reforms.
